Terms & Conditions:

Terms and conditions are a legal agreement between a business and its customers. They outline the rights and obligations of each party to a contract. They also establish what customers can expect from a business, and what the business expects from its customers.

Terms and conditions are also known as "Terms of Service" (ToS), "Terms of Use", "End-User License Agreement" (EULA), "General Conditions", or "Legal Notes".

Here are some tips for writing terms and conditions:

1. Determine which laws apply to your business
2. Make an outline
3. Choose relevant clauses for your business
4. Use clear, straightforward language
5. Link to other necessary legal and website policies

A limitation of liability clause is one of the main reasons why business owners include terms and conditions on their websites. When reasonable and drafted adequately, such clauses can help protect your business against claims and lawsuits.
